

The Booming Twenties

1. The _____ of the 1920's gave many Americans the _____ time and extra money to enjoy spectator sports.
2. The election of Warren G. _____ indicated that the American people wanted a return to " _____ " and an end to government involvement in the _____.
3. The Republican leaders of the 1920's believed in "laissez faire" – the belief that _____ prospers most, when _____ interferes least. President Coolidge believed that, "the business of America is _____."
4. _____ was up in the 1920's due to the growth of new _____ and new _____. _____ were also up in the 1920's.
5. Increased _____, higher _____, and a desire to enjoy the _____ pleasures of life led to a boom in consumer _____. This led to the growth of " _____ " of retail stores.
6. The electric _____ and the electric _____ were designed to create more _____ time. Other products were designed to help people _____ their increased leisure time.
7. The boom in consumer spending and manufacturing led to some significant _____ changes. For example...

- Young women were " _____ " to experiment with new lifestyles.
- Short _____ and "skimpy" _____ scandalized older men and women.
- The _____ gave young couples more opportunity to spend time unchaperoned.
- _____ halls became "all the rage."

- _____ were places where illegal _____ could be obtained.
- Automobiles became more _____ because they were more _____.
- The growth of the automobile industry led to _____ in many other industries. It also led to the beginning of the "individually-motorized" _____ who drove to work in the city from the _____ and the first " _____."
- Two of the first " _____ " were the Bank of Manhattan (71 stories) and the _____ (102 stories).
- The _____ of the "Booming Twenties" was caused by the genius of _____.
- Henry Ford did NOT _____ the automobile, but he did affect its _____. _____ and the _____ made the prosperity of the 1920's possible. _____ became the "mechanized Mecca" of the modern world.
- Charles _____ became the greatest hero of the 1920's. He was the first person to fly "non-stop" from _____ to _____. He became known as "the _____."
- An economic " _____ " followed the " _____ " of the 1920's.